BOOK FOR FREE READ ON OUR WEBSITE - How do I prevent the 'topping' of my cake? I love this cake recipe and want to try it soon. But the top is usually quite domed, and I can't get it to flatten properly. I baked the cake in a springform pan, which I normally use for cheesecakes. I was wondering if there is anything I can do to make the 'top' flatten out a bit so it's not so domed? A: If you just want it to be more flat, you could easily spray with a non-stick spray and bake it (either in a pan or on top of a cooling rack). You could also use silicone spray instead. I'm not sure if the non-stick spray will melt the frosting. If you really want to keep using the springform pan, you can always slice it into two before putting it in the pan to flatten it more. A: M&B Cakes have an idea for a cake in a thin metal cake pan, called the Cake Pan. It is nice, and will solve your problems. You can find it on Amazon. Q: what is the difference between two versions of code I use iOS 6 and compiled the project on 7.1.1. I've changed some code and finally made it work well. I wanted to back to iOS 6 and tried to re-compile the code. However, I received the following errors: Undefined symbols for architecture armv7: "_WebKit_setDomtiltShiftEnabled", referenced from: -[WebView(WebKitViewControllerAdditions) setDomtiltShiftEnabled:] in WebKitViewControllerAdditions.o "_WebKit
