I have a tuple of 2 tuples like this: (('xxxxx', 'yyyyyy'), ('', '')) I want to transform it to this: xxxxx,yyyyyy, I don't know how to convert a tuple/list of tuples to a csv file, or could anyone solve this problem? My python version is 3.6 A: You can use the following code to convert it to a csv file. with open('file.csv', 'wb') as csvfile: writer = csv.writer(csvfile) writer.writerows(list_of_tuples) Despite the fact that the Broncos are a legitimate Super Bowl contender, you'd be hard-pressed to find a player on the team that has the benefit of having a life beyond football. That's because while the rest of the NFL is sitting back and savoring the first half of the 2017 season, Broncos players are sprinting around the practice fields, putting in extra time running routes, lifting, and implementing new ideas and strategies in an effort to finish strong. In many ways, life in the Denver locker room may be a lot like life in the service. Every day is different. Some days you roll out of bed, and it's "show and go" to work, and then it's halftime for the day. Other days you're at the gym, lifting, then going home to hit the books and study the playbook. One day you're crashing at your buddy's pad, and the
