According to Fox8.com, “Shivering families have taken to social media to complain about their experience during the frigid temperatures on a number of websites like Reddit.” Lower temperatures have typically led to colder temperatures across the nation in the past few decades. The latest temperatures are in line with what scientists have previously seen in the past few months. “There have been some nights in Raleigh where we haven’t really seen anywhere near as cold as we have over the last week or so,” said meteorologist Todd Halliwell at the National Weather Service. The cold weather is impacting air quality in the Raleigh area, because of the the chemical reactions of low temperature and low humidity as well as the presence of the rare Ozone. “We’ve seen the lowest recorded of Ozone since the 1800’s. This is a perfect storm of events.” said Halliwell. The National
