Features: - Tons of control options, levels of control - Tons of picture adjustment options - Can go perfectly together with many different features - Can be used for a lot of different purposes - Can be used from any computer that can be plugged in You are already using the number one panorama app and the number one panorama maker in your smartphone right now, but what are you waiting for? Try Acropano PRO now. Acropano has multiple features and tons of settings to create panoramas that are so good that you can leave your expensive camera at home and still create amazing panoramas with a built-in camera. The free version is quite good, and in the case of my application, very similar to many of the free panorama makers that you find in the Apple App Store. The Pro version is similar to the versions in the Google Play Store, which are quite expensive. You can get Acropano from here: ===== My version of Acropano: ===== Do you use another panorama software? Leave a comment. How to Make a Panorama Using Adobe Lightroom/Photoshop Step 1: Add your photos 1. Download the photos from your computer into Adobe Lightroom 2. Import the photos by right clicking on the photos and choosing "Add to Lightroom" from the options 3. After importing, select a general location to place your photos from the "Album/Library" page. 4. Name your panorama from the "Lights" page. Step 2: Start creating the panorama 5. Drag your photos from the library panel and place them in the panorama 6. You can move photos by clicking and dragging the individual photos 7. To make the photos fit together nicely, zoom in and pan in the viewfinder 8. To create a panorama, move the photo over one-third of the way to the next photo 9. Now you can either click to create a new photo or right click and
