There are a variety of ways to save your images, and the format of that saved image is often the most important aspect of the image. There are two popular file formats that images are commonly saved in:

* JPEG: This is a standard image format based on the CCITT recommendations for lossy image compression. JPEG is lossy because it reduces the quality of an image without affecting its resolution. JPEG is an industry standard; it is supported by most browsers and older versions of QuickTime. * TIFF: This is a standard image format based on the CCITT recommendations for lossless image compression. The main advantage of the TIFF format is its support for color. The problem with TIFF is that it is not widely supported.

ST. PETERSBURG, July 13. /TASS/. The Russian Navy's Project 11400 submarine missile systems will be fitted with new laser and guided-missile warheads, the Navy's press office said on Thursday. The Project 11400 submarine missile systems are designed for launching cruise missiles and torpedoes from the submarine's torpedo tubes. The weapons include a guided fragment projectile, a smart guided missile with a laser-homing guidance system, a smart guided missile with a homing guidance system, a long-range guided missile and a multi-purpose bomb. Russia's Defense Ministry said the Project 11400 submarine missile systems were fitted with a new laser and guided-missile warheads at the Yekaterinburg arms expo in June.

1. Field of the Invention

The present invention generally relates to cooking appliances and, more specifically, to a steam generator for a combination cooking/fridge appliance wherein the steam generator is positioned in the bottom of the unit for quick heat exchange with the contents of the refrigerator.

2. Description of the Prior Art

A need exists for a combination cooking/refrigerator unit wherein the refrigerator and cooking unit is effectively positioned on a single shelf which is in direct thermal contact with a steam generator positioned within the base of the cooking/refrigerator unit. Prior attempts have been made to satisfy the need. One such prior approach is to place the refrigerator and the cooking unit as shown in U.S. Pat. No. 2,895,941, issued to Hoeslauer. The Hoeslauer patent discloses a combination refrigerator and cooking unit wherein the heating element is located under the refrigerator, with the combustion chamber being positioned outside of the unit. Other prior attempts include those shown in U.S. Pat. Nos. 4,654,905, issued to Koehler et al.; 4,769,520, issued to Ishida et al.; 4,936,308, issued to Rammel; and, 4,952,015, issued to Naito. All of the prior attempts at providing a combination cooking/refrigerator unit suffer from various disadvantages. Among these are the structural weaknesses which result from the positioning of the combustion chamber external to the cooking/refrigerator unit, the compromised position of the heating element, the requirement for a disposable appliance which becomes corroded by the heating element or material within the cooking/refrigerator unit, and the inefficient

Check out the cover of your 4th-grade student's activity book! It's so easy to personalize. Make a pattern of your child's favorite animal or favorite color. Simply print them out on your home computer, enlarge, and glue to the inside front cover. After you've created the design, you can easily print it out on your home computer. The resulting pages will be long enough to glue to the front of your child's activity book. In your activity book, create a “retro” cover, full of stickers and pictures of a bygone era. Project 3 – Office Memorandum Books Create a personalized 4th-grade office memorandums book. Make a design out of your child’s first pet. You can easily print out a page to use as the memorandums cover. Once you’ve created the cover design, you can make a template out of it. Create a poster-sized copy of the memorandums design by printing it onto your home computer. A wooden block is a good wood to make your home office book cover. Use a pencil to trace the cover onto the wood. Scrap a piece of posterboard to create the book’s spine. Drywall screws and a screwdriver make a simple DIY project. Use duct tape to adhere the spine and cover to the plastic back of the cardboard, so that the wood isn’t visible. The inside of the back cover of the book will be the last page of the book. Before you finish the project, create a front cover design to put on the front cover of your book. After you’ve created the cover, you can use transparent tape to create the watermark. To get the watermark to align with the back cover, make a copy of the cover. Then place it on the work surface on top of the back cover. Trace the cover onto the back cover and create a watermark from it.

Current developments in molecular immunology of schistosomiasis. The human schistosome parasite is a complex and multicellular organism, requiring a well-coordinated interaction between various cell types and secreted molecules to invade and colonise tissues. Several research groups are currently working on developing new methods to investigate at the molecular level the aspects of schistosomiasis pathogenesis that are still mysterious and difficult to
