I tried to add resize: true to the jqGrid definition, but that didn't work. Any help? A: The reason why you don't see the resized grid after window resize is because you defined height as follows width: "100%" You should change the definition to as follows to see the resize. width: "auto", height: "auto" A: It would be a better practice to not set height and width on the grid. I would have it so the grid is 100% of the available browser width and height and this will take care of resizing the grid automatically when the browser window is resized and having to worry about column width. Art Teacher Shares Tips To Help Students Get Started With Art A special workshop is being offered in high schools this year to help students start getting creative with art and craft. Diane Monnig works in the classroom daily. As a teacher at Midway High School, Monnig is an art teacher and a full-time mom. She also works for the Washington County School District where she provides art instruction to students in grades K-8. Monnig is being recognized as an artist and says it's an honor to share her experiences with others. She's been doing this for years and said there are always elements that need to be improved in the current lesson. Monnig said she works with teachers to help them set things up. That's one of

The purpose of this study is to observe the change of skin surface micromorphology of psoriasis after the treatment with ALX-02/07 or LY-266583, a specific inhibitor of CCR-3. We injected 0.6 mg/kg ALX-02/07 or 0.3 mg/kg LY-266583 into the ear vein of the four guinea pigs in each group respectively. The signs of the skin lesions would rise and the peripheral blood was collected at different time points. For the topical observations, two guinea pigs were chosen. The fur of the two guinea pigs was removed on the back and they were immediately treated with topical 1% acetic acid twice a day for 2 days. The appearance and the size of psoriasis on the two guinea pigs were measured at 1 day
