What's new in BOXIT Map Desert:

That got me pumped for chapter 85, and by the looks of it, so did you. I don't recall if you read the comments on my manga blog, but I want to say to you, that Haruka's chapter was something for you guys to look forward to. And so without further ado, I present you Haruka's chapter 85- After all, what's a chapter without the crazy trouble? Haruka's thoughts are everything. I wonder if Juuwaku and Haru's families really like me. Whenever I meet them, they speak politely to me, but the truth is, I'm terribly afraid of them. Because of that, I pretend to like them, that I'm willing to bond with them if I have to. That way, they'll want to be friends with me too. It wouldn't be embarrassing to them if they didn't like me. Not that I care about being my own family's friend. The only one who's so weirded me out is Haru. After breakfast, I wandered through the storeroom. There was the new jacket Juuwaku bought for her. But it wasn't yet done up. Still, it looked good on her. But it was on the floor, getting dirt on it while I walked by. Haru=^_- Where's the duster?! It's right beside the jacket. Aren't uniforms supposed to be like that? I couldn't help but frown. Haru started cleaning the jacket up, humming when she cleaned the dirt from it. Okay, it's good but about that duster... I murmured, hiding my face. Though, I wonder if duster isn't stupid. "Uwaa, it's bright!" Haru jumped back and pointed at me. I smiled benignly. Oh yeah! I guess duster must get dirty really easily. "What is it?" Haru asked as she shyly blinked at me. The white coat was what got my attention. It had a bright yellow collar. But that collar, was not a real collar. They made the collar to

Welcome to the post-apocalyptic world! Make a name in this world of the Wasteland and take part in a project which can, if successfull, save millions of lives. At night, you take on the role of a special agent and during the day, you will fight in the most intense combat which Fallout and Metro are known to provide. Your work consists in hunting the most dangerous Wasteland lifeforms, sending their heads to the company headquarters which will then be sent to the Front in order to insure that everybody in this world can have a better life. Combat: Every moment can be crucial in this game, most of your enemies will have a certain amount of health, and if you manage to kill their allies, your reward will be not only an easier fight, but an experience that will help you on the next stages. Missions: Missions will take you to completely new areas and a different challenge, all the while giving you access to weapons never seen before. Survival: Survival is not your problem, as long as you have fuel, food and ammunition. You will find what you need almost everywhere, except perhaps during the night. Wasteland: Since ancient times, some fateful day destroyed the human race, turning the world into a place which only bears the name of the Wasteland. Fallout: A haven of survival, this is the most exclusive and expensive city. Be careful around it as it is sure to have hidden dangers. Metro: The Metro, that which should save the human race, has been defeated and the last generation is now in the caves where everybody imagined it to be. Features: - A dynamic, randomly generated Wasteland which features all sorts of characters, buildings and diverse climate. - An in-depth and highly cinematic combat system, where melee and ranged weapons are used in an environment which mixes and matches a mixture of linear and non-linear gameplay. - Various customisable characters with powerful equipment. - A hardcore single player mission. - Four powerful specialisations. - A fully voiced story. - Bikers, cadets, officers, scientists, and
