In general, two kinds of connecting members are used for connecting two members, for example, connecting a wire and a conductor of an electronic circuit board. The former connecting member is called a xe2x80x9cconnectorxe2x80x9d, and the latter one is called a xe2x80x9cburrxe2x80x9d. The connectors are commonly manufactured by insert molding of conductive material, such as copper, into a connector housing made of an electrically insulating resin. And the burrs are also manufactured by insert molding of conductive material in a pipe provided with an electrically insulating sheath. For example, Patent publication 1 has disclosed a method of manufacturing burrs by insert molding into a pipe made of an electrically insulating material, wherein, in this manufacturing method, a pipe is pushed into a mold
