It is free and usable in both online and offline modes. You can download and play it for free from the App store at I have been working on this for 8 hours now and I think I'm close (not that I care....lol) Let me start out by saying, I'm not very good at this stuff. I have a history with being bad at JavaScript, so I'm not used to it, but I have been forced to use it in this assignment. I have no idea what I'm doing. I am trying to make an app that will be able to read a text file, and turn each line into a button. Then a popup should show that says which button is which.... Show me the code, please! Also, I don't really want to use JSON for this, I'm pretty sure it has to be around a DOM since I'm trying to create a form. That seems to be your main problem. You don't really want to create the button and then use the Text and letterValue on them (This is bad, I'll show you soon). What you want to do is loop through all the buttons, and then loop through all the text, and for each of them, create a string like button_text and letterValue. (This is good, see below). So you loop through the buttons and then the texts, and for each of those, you start a new string that is build from the letterValue and buttonText (not your custom button text). This is good. You then format this new string into objects
