Japanese version

I've always wanted to include a strategy promotion/deprecation vehicle in TT3's strategy leveling system. But before I do that, I'd like to know what's your opinions to this idea.

The game plan is:

- It's a promotion vehicle. People would use it whenever they want to level any class, even though it's not a core game class. You will get its effect unless you use the core game class in 5 minutes or less. After that, the ability will be removed. You have to use the character you have selected (even another class) for at least 10 minutes (2 core game classes if using class change) in order to negate its effect and use it again. Of course, once the ability is negated, you will be able to play with it again.
- It will go away after a while as a deprecation vehicle. And in this case, it will disappear after 1 month (after all the deprecation vehicle's time has run out).
- It is randomly assigned during character creation.

This idea is something I thought a long time ago after I played FF9. The basic idea I want to work in TT3 is that everyone gets enjoyment off in the game but some people more than others by coincidence. So the game will be more fun for those who play more frequently than others. This guy likes to play games only on the weekdays while his other job is hardcore business work so he doesn't have many time to play. He
