Super Reviewer _____ This is an action RPG game, a game that follows the same general formula as many other action RPGs out there, but with something different about it, something that makes it stand out from the rest. Instead of a bunch of random encounters, the combat in this game is procedurally generated. Every battle is a separate event that happens with the same difficulty each time. This makes every battle fair and challenging, but it also means that they will all be new, fresh experiences. This, coupled with the inclusion of a “loot-drop” system, means that in addition to gaining new items and weapons, you will be able to give yourself another skill to use. The game does not stray far from the normal RPG formula. Your experience and skill points are being put towards your stats, which consist of, Strength, Dexterity, Constitution, Intellect, Agility, Vitality, Intelligence, Wits, and Charisma. You will be able to increase your stats by leveling up, which essentially just means you will get “more experience points” for leveling up. You will be able to access a menu to select any level you want to level up, and you will then be able to attack monsters to raise your experience level by that amount. When it comes to character development, your characters begin at Level 1, and you will be able to raise your stats all the way up to Level 20. You will need experience and skills to do this, but it is definitely possible. The other big thing you will be able to do is to increase your “power” in your characters. Power can be either “mood” or “finesse”. Mood is used to increase various aspects of your character, such as the number of attacks, speed, and defense, whereas finesse determines the type of weapon you will be able to equip. Of course, your character will also have a class. There are five classes available: Weaponsmith, Ranger, Rogue, Warrior, and Wizard. Your class will determine your weapon type and the stats you can raise. Items are the other big part of the game. You will be able to find and equip armor, items, and weapons that can increase your stats or stats in different ways. You will be able to choose what you equip based on the class of the person you are fighting, and what you will be able to use on the field. Weapons will vary from bff6bb2d33
