Tjeerd Timmer (born 29 April 1971 in Arnhem) is a Dutch former football goalkeeper and currently the goalkeeping coach for professional team Derby County F.C.. He spent most of his career as a goalkeeper for Feyenoord. However, he came to fame in 1997 when he was brought to play against Ajax in the play-off final at the Johan Crujff ArenA, to win promotion. This showed an impressive display of goalkeeping skills to avoid conceding three goals in that game, which is the only goal scored by Ajax in that game (then 2-0, now 0-2). He played only one game for Feyenoord as back-up goalkeeper for Marc Rinke. He made a comeback in 2002, coming back at De Graafschap, in their squad for the 2002-2003 Eredivisie. He played for 36 games and conceded only 13 goals for them, becoming topscorer of the league, and three times they were close to winning the Eredivisie. He left De Graafschap when the new season started, but was unable to choose where he wanted to play and went back to Feyenoord. His main current club is Royal Derby County.
