The second trailer released for FIFA 22 shows off the game's improved ball physics and touches, as well as its upgraded AI routines. FIFA 22 will be available for PS4 and Xbox One on 29 June in Europe. Full details of the game's features can be found below. New gameplay features HyperMotion Technology The "elevated energy and pace" on the pitch is the result of the new HyperMotion Technology, which will be implemented in FIFA 21 on PS4, Xbox One and PC. The technique collects data from 22 real-life players playing a complete, high-intensity football match in motion capture suits – and with further "increased ball-to-player distance" it will allow the gamer to more realistically experience a match than ever before. The FIFA community has been buzzing over the news of the next-generation FIFA game featuring next-gen gameplay features; you can even pick up the news at the bottom of this post. Today we've seen two trailers: one showcasing the enhanced ball physics and player movement, while the other focuses on the improved AI routines. And it looks as if it's the most significant jump in gameplay that's been made in a FIFA game for quite some time. The new features look to elevate the overall feeling of gameplay, offering a more fluid and exciting football match. No "Jumping Robots" The gameplay features in the two trailers appear very close to each other but for one reason or another do not appear to be quite identical. While the Enhanced Ball Physics were featured in the first trailer (it plays out in the top image), they aren't the new "low-lever touch" that's also being shown in the second trailer (it plays out in the bottom image). The end product seen in the first trailer seems to show the biggest leap in gameplay, while the second trailer shows a more subtle but significant enhancement. It seems that the Enhanced Ball Physics were included for those that have FIFA 19 or for those that are upgrading from the previous iteration. It's also likely that Sony and EA saw this as a more dramatic improvement to gameplay from the previous game, and felt it warranted a more prominent mention. This is evidenced in the first trailer as players can even jump over or through balls they have previously cleared. The second trailer

Here is the code I am using: global $wpdb; $result = $wpdb->get_results("SELECT whatever FROM table WHERE someCondition"); When I run the code, no results are returned. However, if I run the exact same query through phpMyAdmin, I get more than 1 result. In the past, I would add LIMIT 1 to the end of my query and get the only row returned. It's been a while, so I am not sure what I am doing wrong. Thanks in advance for any input. A: For some reason, I was in a loop when getting the first row of data. It was only returning the first row because it didn't even get past the first iteration of the loop. if(!empty($result) { return $result->get_result(); } You can also use get_num_rows() in place of get_result(). What's new:

- FIFA Player Ratings - three rating categories are introduced to FIFA including skill, physicality and strength. Players are assigned to a rating group (from low to high) by EA, which determines how their real-life performance matches up to this rating group and whether they're a PR player, high-minded defender or speedy midfielder. Everyone starts out as a "Fresh Talent" and plays according to their rating.
- PA Option in Training - On the field and during training, you can select which way the ball needs to spin to produce realistic passes and shots.
- Predefined Styles - A new option allows players to pre-design their formation in the global Customise menu.
- Complete Pass-by-play Visualization - Players now actually look like they pass the ball while getting shot at. Pass-by-play animations, like sliding one way and the next, now feature in-game.
- Online Seasons - Online Seasons allow you to play in friendly matches together while honing your skills. Players can pick players or clubs to join, and also undertake match simulations to win and level up.
- More player editing controls - Players can now create their own editing settings from the Menus and with the in-game menu. It's now possible to change player attributes (height, weight, number of training sessions per week) and kit colours.
- New language support

FIFA 22 is now powered by the long-time, landmark partnership between FIFA and the English Premier League, a world leader in the sport. As per the partnership, authentic English Premier League players are now in the game, bringing the game even closer to the real thing. FIFA: The New Phenomenon FIFA is the world's most popular video game. FIFA started on the street with players kicking a soccer ball against a wall to pass the time, and just a few years after, created by the England FA, is in our hearts and on our hands. Now, FIFA is available in more than 130 countries, and sold more than 72 million copies. To this day, we want to bring you the games you love even closer to your heart. How are we doing it? Get connected. Become part of your favourite team. Join a fight for glory. A new entry in the series. This is how football unfolds, and we make it thrilling and emotional by extending the gameplay beyond what has been seen before. Ultimate ball control. Have you ever had that one moment where you realise your player is so good at dribbling, that you do not want to win? This is why you have the right to feel the same emotion, because you just beat a professional player. Have you ever had that one moment where you realise your player is so good at dribbling, that you do not want to win? This is why you have the right to feel the same emotion, because you just beat a professional player. Touch reactions. This is one thing that has been improved, but still, one of the things people appreciate the most. A professional athlete makes a play, shows the ball, and after that, do not hesitate, and immediately run towards the ball. I do not know why exactly, but I do not want to watch a robot trying to do the same thing.
