Friendly Net Watcher

The Friendly Net Watcher is an easy to use and freeware network monitoring and security software for Windows. It allows you to track user activity on your network and kick users off your computer network. You can also log information about network users and play an audio warning if someone accesses or opens a file on your computer. Freeware Network Monitoring Software Reviews Softres I used a client: $ iptables -A INPUT -i wan-in -p tcp --dport 22 -m state --state NEW -m recent --set --name server-id To make the iptables rule persistent I put a link script in /etc/init.d/: $ sudo ln -fs /etc/opensvpn/iptables /etc/opensvpn/dhcp This script uses iptables using the variables in the conf files. The script also creates a new iptables rule for the Opensvpn subnet (the VPN subnet is on port forwarding) and the new rule makes sure the rule for port 22 is persisted. The code can be pasted in pastebinit and uploaded to our paste.ubuntu.com service for sharing. The full bash script can be found here. Mount and Setup the Opensvpn Server: $ sudo mkdir /etc/opensvpn $ sudo mkdir /etc/opensvpn/dhcp Edit and make the following changes in the conf files (create a new server on LAN and a client on VPN): $ sudo gedit /etc/opensvpn/server.conf Copy and paste this in the server.conf file: client { #for server: server-ip-address port mssin 1 #EAP-TLS encryption mtu 1280 interface tun0 rekey 2h dev tun persist-key persist-tun ca ca.crt cert client.crt key client.key dh dh.pem #

What's New in the Friendly Net Watcher?

This is the most simple, easy to use and freeware application to help you keep an eye on the users connected to your PC. It records every file accessed by the users and plays an audio warning for the user who has accessed a file. You can play the selected file and report it to the FNW Spam robot via the defined URL. It works without installation; it does not register itself or interfere with the operating system services. A manual and an automated user access warning can be chosen by the user. Friends can open a share folder to edit/save files on your computer. This application runs on Windows 95 and higher. FNW Software Features: - User access and files opened on your computer via the network; - Kick users automatically and manually; - Log information about users; - Play an audio warning if someone accesses or opens a file on your computer; - Play a selected file; - Log selected files to a file; - Record and play defined URL audio requests; - Recording and playing audio files in the context of user files; - Select an application program to be started when a specified user logs in; - Show log of users sessions; - Display of users by IP; - Automatic lock of files/folders with a certain extension; - Playing an audio file after a file is opened; - Recording and playing audio files on a specified directory; - Opening files via a file share on the local computer; - Opening files in defined FNW directories; - With a single click, a file can be transferred/forwarded to another computer; - Playing an audio file on the local computer when a user connects to the network; - Free download; - Report specified files to an e-mail address; - Record files in the context of the application program used; - Open files to another folder or to another disk on the local computer; - Record specified files according to the defined extension; - File transfer to and
