Contact us Golf With Your Friends is only available in the US Proof of the Weierstrass M-test I am trying to prove the Weierstrass M-test. I currently have $\{x_n\}$ converging to x, and $x_n \le M\epsilon_n$ for all n, with $\epsilon_n \rightarrow 0$. I want to show that $f(x_n) \rightarrow f(x)$ (where f is continuous). I know I can use the sequential characterization of convergence to get $$\lim_{n \rightarrow \infty} f(x_n) \le f(x)$$ but how do I get $$\lim_{n \rightarrow \infty} f(x_n) \ge f(x) \text{?}$$ This is a problem with a hint, because I do not know how to substitute the $M\epsilon_n$ into the $\lim$ function. Also, I know that I can get a direct subsequence in the metric space, but am not sure how to prove that $x_n \rightarrow x$ in the metric space. A: d41b202975

What's new:

(UAE) We're All Golfers. It's Just Not Anyone Else. I'm sure that comes as no surprise if you read this blog. Tandem or pair, it's a golfing website! Two's Company, bigger is always better? Is there no challenge or threshold you (or I) refuse to go beyond with your friends? When it is a large arena, a specific venue of choice? In a span of three years or fewer? It is what it is. For some it's golf without being a golfer. For others it is golf without the private club experience. For others it is the ultimate escape with an opportunity to challenge their social skills. For me and my friends, it's a combination of all the above. In North America, this term would most likely refer to what I have done in the past. While a foursome is a group of four or more golfing buddies, a golfing mini-tour or golfing tour might very well be common in the Golf Random weekly blog feature worldwide. Most of my friends in the south-east corner of North America refer to themselves as clubs. There's usually one club in the family, and we meet once in a while from November to the end of March. Sure there's lots of private golf but that's just too much work and much too late. We get together in Florida, Massachusetts, Virginia and sometimes a third club heads south to Orlando. We have fun and prepare ourselves for cold Canadian winter mornings. Plus it gives us a chance to get a strong first week training in! How does the math add up? Nobody knows the exact numbers, but on average, each of us is responsible for the bill of two. That means a foursome averages three in the dark. We're splitting the tab anyway. After that two club, it's usually one pampered and one hard-working gopher / caddy. Two can play the course but one tends to miss holes by a deficit of driveability.

Because of this 2 plus 2 equals 4 deal, I understand that certain things begin to fall by the wayside. I realize that – while the evening isn't free – the commitment level is considerably less. I also know that even with only one late tee time and plenty of other nice golf days to be had
