I am creating a IPanel (called MapPane) in which contains a MapView. Now I need to insert something above the MapView but I don't want this something to block the map, so I cannot just add it above the MapView in the panel. My idea is to put the something in a IFrame and then frame the MapPane within this IFrame (laid out as a panel that fills the frame). Is this possible? How would I go about doing this? A: Use a IPanel with BorderLayout.CENTER as the layout, Add your map view, then add your additional content to the IPanel's CENTER. The result will be your map view in the center of the IPanel, and your other content in the North/West/South/East of the IPanel. For example: import java.awt.BorderLayout; import java.awt.event.ActionEvent; import java.awt.event.ActionListener; import javax.swing.IFrame; import javax.swing.IPanel; import javax.swing.IScrollPane; import javax.swing.|ScrollPane.ScrollMode; import javax.swing.SwingUtilities; public class TestMapPane { private [Frame frame; private [ScrollPane scroll; public static void main(String[] args) { SwingUtilities.invokeLater(new Runnable() { @Override public void run() { createAndShowGUI(); e79caf774b antigen. In order to study the distribution of the neuropeptides, substance P and somatostatin, in the testis, we carried out immunohistochemical studies in human prostate specific antigen (hPSA)-transgenic mice. In addition, effects of hPSA and the binding of exogenous hPSA on substance P and somatostatin were studied in vitro. In the testis, the immunostainings for substance P and somatostatin showed a similar distribution pattern. The immunostainings were present in the Sertoli and Leydig cells. There were no obvious differences in the immunostainings of the somatostatin and substance P between the transgenic mice overexpressing hPSA and the control mice. hPSA did not alter the binding of [3H]somatostatin but did decrease the binding of [3H]substance P. The immunoreactivities were markedly reduced by hPSA. We conclude that the neurotransmitterlike peptides, substance P and somatostatin are present in testicular tissue and that the level of somatostatin receptor is decreased by the presence of hPSA.
