

The Elden Ring is a free online fantasy action RPG in which you can play as a Warrior, Mage, Demon, or Archer. A vast world with multiple settings awaits you. Let your adventure begin. Haedrig's Iron Hand is a new, free-to-play Dungeons and Dragons role-playing game and the first standalone game in the Realm of Haedrig series. Based on the hit Dungeons and Dragons video game series, Haedrig's Iron Hand seamlessly combines the classic D&D rules with a streamlined, visually-stunning, easy-to-use interface that provides a truly intuitive experience for newer players while still catering to veteran gamers. New classes and races are included and all the original spells, abilities, and equipment from the D&D video games are back! With an emphasis on high-level PvP combat, tactics, and survival, Haedrig's Iron Hand is focused on the core tenets of D&D while introducing new mechanics and game features that will appeal to modern gamers. Haedrig's Iron Hand is an open world D&D adventure at the end of the Sword Coast, where ambitious heroes can undertake a variety of quests to earn experience, loot, and renown. You will need to travel far and wide and choose which factions to help or hinder as you explore a vast world in which players can hold their own, one-on-one PvP encounters, and build their own villages. The game world is divided into human-inhabited villages, locations, and more wilderness. You can choose to be a town guard or a wandering adventurer — adventure in other players' towns or travel and aid factions and villages in the wild. The game features five playable classes: Warrior, Wizard, Rogue, Archer, and Demon, each with their own unique set of skills, paragon paths, and story arcs. Additional classes and races, including the elven Rune Knight, Halfling Rogue, and Dwarven Cleric, will be released with future updates. Gameplay will be turn-based, with both real-time and action-based mechanics available. Action-based combat is turn-based, enabling players to execute strategy and tactics to make the most of their position, attack a target, or block incoming blows. When combat occurs, each player selects an action from a list, which will depend on the opponent's position and phase of the fight. Players roll dice
