One person has died and three others have suffered life-threatening injuries after a collision between a bus and a stationary lorry in London, police said. The bus collided with the lorry in Tower Bridge Road shortly before 11.30am on Monday. Two people, an adult man and woman, and an eight-year-old girl who was a pedestrian, were taken to St Thomas' Hospital. A 40-year-old man was taken to King's College Hospital after he was hit by a second lorry on Tower Bridge Road. The road was closed while firefighters cut the lorries apart, Scotland Yard said. A Metropolitan Police spokesman said: "A collision occurred on Tower Bridge Road where a bus collided with a lorry. "A man has been taken to hospital in a critical condition. Three others were taken to hospital by London Ambulance Service and have been discharged."
