What's new in The Life Of One Dog:

's Tale of Love and Survival 1178 days ago I was born. Seems like yesterday. But it was 11/25/04 - Oct 30, 2008. Do you know how many days there are in a year?? And how old I am now? My name is Bandana, but my most prized possession, besides my life, is this blog. There are many entries here that are hard to explain in words. You'll just have to read them and see. This blog is a little rambling, but I hope and trust you'll find it interesting. I don't want to talk a lot... I have enough to say in one way or another. If you truly want to know me, just read these blogs. =] There are some things about my story that I will try to make clear. Thanks to everyone who reads this blog. Nothing would make me happier than to hear from my readers. Vita's Passage To begin, I have a husband, his name is Vita, and together we found myself and our small household. With nothing more than some laughs, good memories and joy we were able to make a life together. I found out just how strong our love was on February 2, 2006. My husband's life had been completely transformed in the month leading up to Valentine's Day. Unlike any day of the year he hadn't been capable of sleeping more than 2 or 3 hours a night. And I couldn't let him go by himself. I simply wouldn't. So when I awoke the morning of February 2nd, I crawled out of bed still completely ignorant about what I had yet to come. Little did I know, even my biggest critic had gone completely beyond himself. And with him came the best gift he would ever have...a healthy baby girl, Bandana. I cried like I was the happiest woman in the world. Something I had never even imagined. To have gone from a condition so bleak that the doctors had said I wouldn't make it to this astonishing level of health was something I never imagined possible. I couldn't think straight from the first moment I began hearing her heart beat. I knew this wasn't the end. Something changed in me. I knew immediately I would fight for her. To ensure my daughter was the greatest child she could be. I fought from the moment I laid eyes on her for her and no one else. I actually thought I might have lost her before we even met. I was convinced I would have no chance in life
