Frozen atmosphere, unclear weather and monotonous landscape of the Arctic polar sea. Voyage of a former naval captain, Reni Zymes, through this inhospitable region and terrible winter. A few days ago the old man was rescued by a plane. His comrades always expected him to be dead in the Arctic Ocean. For unknown reasons the plane did not land. Instead it carried him to the north and left him on the way. Reni Zymes has no idea what is happening, how he got there and where to go. He is thinking of the last days he spent with his wife and daughter. Suddenly, a storm suddenly changes everything, to the contrary of the forecast, it is a warm spring day. Meanwhile, Reni Zymes realizes that all what happened is his own fault. His wife and daughter died because he left them there. Now he has to return to them! The polar sea has got many dangers and obstacles. Only by his quick reflexes can he save himself. Will his captain's skills and experience be able to help him? A killer board game for 4 people! Each player chooses a role, as a driver, a server, a recruiter, or a killer. The game uses a shared character book that player's must fill out before joining the game. The character book contains information about the players character, their role and a few additional options. Each player gets a character and a piece of paper with a comment and a question for the killer. During the game the questions need to be answered by communicating with other players. The killer gets a fixed mission that they have to complete before being voted off. A vote is held with a simple majority. Anyone who doesn't vote will be voted off automatically. The one who is voted off first loses. 1st player/killer Caroline GOOD - Clever and resourceful, a good person to know. Someone to watch your back, and never run away from a fight. Smart and productive. A few flaws? Well, she knows what she wants, but doesn't have the patience to wait for it. And she won't do anything stupid or dangerous in a situation that will get her raped and murdered. So, as a good person, she will be the most happy to get out alive, and that's what is counted most for her. Steffen GOOD - Clever and resourceful, a good person to know. ## What's new:

The Galactic Force is a fictional extraterrestrial, humanoid androgyny species created for Galaxy Quest, by Ron Moore, David Grant, and David A. Goodman (the writers). It is a monk-like society as seen in 15 novels, formed upon the passage of the laws of mathematics, by 11 of its members. The Galactic Force appears to be pursuing an agenda of forming a united galaxy the Milky Way. The species was particularly noted for its apparent monk-like behavior, which it would emphasize when explaining its goals, and established an extremely rigid system of government. The Galactic Force possesses considerable technological advance, such as space travel. In many of Ron Moore's Galaxy Quest novels, the Galactic Force would often meet with or have conversations with Arthur C. Clarke's fictional Human-Space Exploration Group (H.E.G.), a group ostensibly responsible for the creation of various technologies. The Galactic Force is the galactic form of the religion "Numbers." Origin and creation The twelve members of the Galactic Force were selected by Arno Adams, a contemporary of the main character Zoë Washburne, on the basis of their ages, ages are restricted within their society to 11 years of age (1503 on the original Star Trek series). The characters within the fictional franchise all entered the Galactic Force at different levels of development, even before the Galactic Force was created. Specifically, Zoë Washburne was a member of the Galactic Force even before its creation. Beyond his service, Arno Adams, the creator of the Galactic Force, showed to the group their perceptions would have, without Zoë Washburne, and how the Galactic Force would have developed and mature without her presence. In a 2002 interview, Moore said: "It always seemed to me that Clark's H.E.G. and the Galactic Force were pretty much based on this theory by the statistician Ian Stewart of how, given thousands of people, you'd end up with these kind of distributions," Moore says.

Characteristics and perception The Galactic Force is a highly intolerant, regressive religion, wherein people are not to cultivate the characteristics of things such as musical talents, talents in fantasy, or great intellect (despite the enormous achievements of people such as Fermat). While strong minded, even or especially brutal people are encouraged to pursue their ambitions, interpersonal relationships are of primary focus in the school of the Galactic Force. The members' decisions and actions are solely based upon mathematics, mathematics being
