Amazon is betting its future on Alexa - draugadrotten ===== qin I still think in-store research and ordering is still unbeatable. Most people probably want coffee and donuts, not what kind of coffee they prefer, while the same is not true for furniture, I imagine people buy much more information about the furniture of that type and quality than choosing amongst restaurants. In either case the information is extremely personal and depends on personal preferences, as does the customer experience. Q: iOS - import SDWebImage as swift 3 I want to import SDWebImage in my swift project. But after i import it I got this error : fatal error: 'SDWebImage.h' file not found import SDWebImage Use of unresolved identifier 'SDWebImage' Use of unresolved identifier 'SDWebImageDownloader' Use of unresolved identifier 'SDWebImageManager' Use of unresolved identifier 'SDWebImageOperation' How can I import this library in swift 3? I found a version of this library here. But when I am trying to use that library I get error like this: Swift.h file not found I am using Xcode 8.0.1 and swift 3. A: 1. There is a new method that introduces image downloader. Here is the link: func download\(url: URL, options: SDWebImageDownloaderOptions = SDWebImageDownloaderOptions\(\)\) -> UIImage 2. The reason for this conflict is because Swift 3 was a major migration from Swift 2.2. 3. Swift3 uses extensions. If you are using Xcode 8, you should use extension syntax. You
