What's new:

- The Witness Like an assured and practiced magician, Lee Campbell, aka the Ballad Singer, is full of invention, revealing his sparkling mind, his playful wit. He's one of those rare performers who's enrapturing a live audience with a complex and self-effacing humor built on storytelling and humanness. He's also a noted martial arts practitioner and a student of the faith-based wisdom of circles, compassion and wholeness that distinguish nomadic societies for thousands of years. That awareness is reflected in Campbell's stories about himself, all told with a light touch and good timing in a setting that favors lies and humor: an authentic and colorful Moroccan marketplace, with belly dancers and drummers, or an English pub with a rough, friendly atmosphere. It's very refreshing. Subscribe to Chezine via Email Culinary Studio owner and yoga teacher, Huntley Miller, is working with her yoga students in the studio to explore how we can be more present in our relationships, what parts of our personality might be trying to speak for us, and how we can get to the root of our emotions. Rich Cicero River Edge Community Table's Rich Cicero reflects on the rich history of the Italian American heritage in Ridgefield, New Jersey, and the importance of celebrating and sharing that heritage with our children and grandchildren. Emiliano Amassi Emiliano Amassi is dedicated to preserving the traditions, culture and heritage of his native Peru for generations to come. His paintings reflect his interest in the cultural and demographic history of the Andes, and are subtle tributes to the pre-Columbian culture of the area. Skylar Turf As a result of heavy deforestation, the hills of ancient Attic Greece have been severely impacted. Turkey has encouraged expansions in Greek national parks causing further destruction of the delicate ecosystem. Filmmaker and photographer Skylar Turf spent several months in Greece documenting the forests for conservation and the potential of their renewal to provide a new home and environment for the forest people and animals. Emerald City Amber Lehew Amber has a master degree in art and philosophy, and is an active and practicing artist living in New York City. Her work unfolds the rites and rituals that sustain human life, and explores the changes we go through as we grow up and into the rest of the world. Back Country Kitchen

Free Umiro For PC (April-2022)

Fast forward to the distant future! It's the year 2067. Humanity has taken the stars into their grasp, becoming the dominant power in the Milky Way galaxy. With each passing year, an ever-narrowing space border becomes the only thing standing between the galaxy's two great superpowers, the Empire and the Republic. An eye-catching imperialistic new logo and aesthetic soon emerges, while the Republic goes with a decidedly sci-fi, or maybe cyberpunk, hippy lean. The people of the Empire, having lost everything they once knew of life's meaning, have grown disillusioned and turned their backs on the nation's past. The Republic's official slogan, "Down With History", is a bold stand against the Empire's ever-growing army of robot drones that comb through the former's back roads looking for new recruits. But the Republic's dystopian stance against its former ally is misplaced, as more and more people are growing to rely on a company of highly trained "Robot Soldiers" that defend the borders at no personal cost. Soon the civilization of the United States is mostly split into three distinct regions: The Republic, the Deneb sector, and the Empire. A state of perpetual peace reigned between the three sectors, but with the Republic's emphasis on money-making, can this new era of stability last? Your mission: rescue the kidnapped humans across North America and stop the robot attacks The Empire's most recent move in the overseas invasion is the creation of the new, secret headquarters "The Hive". This is where their new leader uses her resources to build fully customizable robot soldiers with human-like sentience. Her plan is to destroy the humans that stood in her way throughout history. Your mission: to rescue the kidnapped humans across North America and stop the robot attacks Experience the latest in low-poly, throwback graphics technology! Run 'n' gun through vibrant environments like cities, caves, swamps, volcanos, and an aerial armada. Battle challenging bosses to the groovy sounds of an energizing chiptune inspired soundtrack! The responsive controls, fixed 3D platforming, and multiple routes keep you in the flow of the game, providing hours of fun and making for a speed runner's dream! Harness the power and save the world. Buy THUNDER KID II: NULL
