“The new 'HyperMotion Technology' in FIFA 22 brings an unprecedented level of realism to the game,” says FIFA World Cup 20 developer for EA SPORTS FIFA World Cup 20 Martin Daum. “It makes the feel of having a Pro Player in the real-life match as close as we can get to the experience of watching a real match live. And it also brings a new dimension to gameplay for us, allowing us to unlock more creative possibilities.” GAMEPLAY The new “HyperMotion Technology” lets you run and compete in your own unique match, play in a higher intensity of the same match, or run and compete against a more experienced Pro Player. HYPERMOTION TECHNOLOGY: TOTAL REPLAY UNLOCK FIFA 22 introduces a new Total Replay™ feature that lets you run and compete in your own highly-competitive Custom Training Session (C.T.S.) based on real-life gameplay from a recent FIFA World Cup™. You can choose the player, the teams, the stadium, and even the day of the match. There are three difficulty settings: Low, Medium, and High. High is the most realistic experience, with high intensity and more intensity challenges. Low is more casual, with lower intensity. And Medium has medium intensity and challenges, closer to how you'd play in a match. Custom Training Sessions will be available in the Franchise, Ultimate Team, and Player Tiers. They can also be accessed after a match. PLAYER TRACKING TECHNOLOGY: MOBILE GAMEPLAY For our handheld mobile players, our “Player Tracking Technology” lets you perform more skills and run and compete in a highly-competitive match as a more experienced or high-ranking Pro Player. You can take a customised Player Tracking Tour™ in the soccer field during a match and compete with a more experienced Pro Player for yourself or others. You can choose the player, the teams, the stadium, and even the day of the match. There are three difficulty settings: Easy, Medium, and Pro, with Pro being the most realistic experience. If you choose to compete yourself, on “Player Tracking Tour,” you can use motion capture data, including from data recorded while the player was running and carrying out gameplay actions, like attacking, defending and tackling. Movements from tackles, aerial duels and on-ball actions are also included. The player
