Umbelliferone is converted via glucuronide conjugation in vivo to 4-hydroxycinnamic acid, which is further metabolized to glucuronic acid conjugates. In urine, sulfate and glucuronide conjugates of umbelliferone and 4-hydroxycinnamic acid have been detected. In addition, the sulfate conjugate of 4-hydroxycinnamic acid is the only human metabolite found to date in plasma after oral administration of umbelliferone. In peripheral tissues, umbelliferone and 4-hydroxycinnamic acid are both converted to glucuronide conjugates. This results in the appearance of the glucuronide conjugate of umbelliferone as the major metabolite in hepatic and peripheral tissues. c6a93da74d
